

Girls In Science 2004 Environmental Science!

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED!!

Girls In Science is an overnight event for 150 middle school girls (grades 6-8) and their chaperones. Designed to promote interest in the sciences and engineering, this event features dynamic speakers and hands-on activities.

Volunteers are needed to lead groups of participants in activities using some basic principles of environmental science. No engineering or technical background is required. Training is provided. Volunteers are encouraged to spend the night but are not required to do so.

Girls In Science Event:
October 2-3, 2004
Science Museum of Virginia

Volunteers are needed:
Saturday, October 2nd 3:30 pm – 10:30 pm
Sunday, October 3rd 9:00am – 11:30 am

To Volunteer:
Contact Kirstin Huesmann
804-383-3239
GISvolunteer@SWE-richmond.org

Volunteer Training:
Thursday, September 30th
12:00 DuPont or
5:30 pm Science Museum of Va.